

Here are 3 questions for you:

1. Are you spending too much of your time & energy getting your team to do what you need them to do?
2. If you go away for a week do you feel you need to check in with them while you're away to be confident all will be well on your return?
3. Do you have to push your team step by step to get them to do what you want – let alone have them go above and beyond for you?

If any of the answers are YES - contact me, Nikki Faulkner.
